Didsbury farmers get weather wise

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Starting next month, farmers in Didsbury won't have to wonder if the weather forecast in Calgary or Red Deer applies to them.

In partnership with the Canadian Wheat Board, Parkland Agri Services, with an outlet in Didsbury, has launched a farm-based weather network.

Four weather stations will be placed within a 20 mile radius of each outlet, giving what market development manager for Didsbury Parkland Agricultural Services Rick Kohut calls a great resource for people involved in agriculture.

"Our goal is to be able to improve the quality of crops for local farmers and add value to agricultural services that Parkland provides," he said.

Kohut says the weather service should help save area farmers money.

"There are three things about it, it's localized, it's real time, and it's accurate," he said.

"If a farmer goes out and sprays a herbicide on his barley crop for wild oat control.

...and the low temperature the night before they spray or after the night they spray, gets below three degrees, the chemical won't work," he said.

Kohut says a farmer can check the weather network, but that will give them Red Deer's forecast.

"If in Red Deer it gets to plus six they assume everything is fine and dandy. They can go out and spray their chemical...and they lose $20,000 worth of herbicide."

So Kohut says this will give farmer's look at conditions that they have never seen before.

"This is good, rural data," he said.

The stations are mounted on a post, and feature a precipitation measurement funnel and a wind and direction meter that spins with the wind speed.

"It's all automated and digital, recording temperature, humidity, dew points, highs and lows," said Kohut.

Each weather station will be directly connected to the landowner's high-speed Internet connection, updating the website every two seconds. The detailed weather reports will be available on parklandagri.com and theweather-bug.com.

When deciding where to plant the weather stations, Kohut says they look at few factors.

"Stations will be placed in areas believed to be well representative of the area.

"We'll put three or four east of Didsbury, and we'll pick areas that are fairly level, aren't next to a tree or to a house. It'll be in the open so that it will measure everything accurately."

Local farmer Ken McDermid decided to allow a Didsbury outlet weather station to be placed on his property.

"It's good to know what the weather is doing in the different parts of the area," he said.

"If you are a farmer who has land in a couple or three different areas, if it's wet in the area, (the local weather reading) saves you time and fuel."

While the public will have access to all weather reports, customers of Parkland Agri Services receive additional forecasts such as crop disease and insect pressures.

Didsbury restaurants welcome new health region restrictions

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Didsbury restaurant owners are already preparing for the potential of enhanced restrictions on trans fat content served at food establishments in the Calgary Health Region.

According to a release by the Calgary Health Region, food permit holders will soon be receiving a draft policy for a proposed crackdown on trans fats cooking oils and spreads.

Phase one of the restrictions, which will require food service providers to use cooking oils and spreads containing less than two per cent trans fat, is expected to start Jan. 1 2008.

The health region is also distributing a questionnaire on what restaurant owners think about the health-conscious initiative.

Many Didsbury food establishments are applauding the change.

Mary Wood, of K&W Drive-in in Didsbury says she supports the policy.

"I think it's a very good idea," said Wood, who presently uses trans fat free oils and burgers at her establishment.

Wood says it's important that people start putting healthier foods into their bodies.

"We don't eat nearly as healthy as we should," she said.

"We like to eat junk food, so if we can eat junk that is a little less harmful to our health, that's a good thing."

Jack Sheridan's Didsbury Inn Restaurant has also been on a personally applied trans fat free program for several months and thinks the health region is on the right path.

"We support this 100 per cent," he said. "We've been reading about (trans fats) for a long time now."

While the trans fat free oil isn't as economically friendly as the other product, Sheridan says it's worth it.

"It's double the price of the other oil, but it's worth it in the long run for everyone's health."

Sheridan says he hasn't received any negative feedback since making the healthy switch.

"Everybody seems to like it. There have been no complaints."

On top of it being healthier, Sheridan says there are other benefits to using the trans fat free product.

"It lasts a little bit longer, which is another advantage to it," he said.

"It doesn't break down as fast as the regular oil."

Medical Officer of Health for the Region, Dr. Brent Friesen says it was important for the Calgary Health Region to be progressive in promoting healthier eating.

"The Calgary Health Region is taking a leadership role on this issue," he said in a prepared statement.

"Our responsibility is to protect the public health and trans fats clearly present a significant and unnecessary health risk."

According to a statement by the health region, research indicates limiting the consumption of trans fats will reduce the risk of coronary heart disease between six and 22 per cent.

West Nile virus remains a health concern for all Albertans. Those over the age of 50 are at greater risk of becoming seriously ill when infected with West Nile virus.

- Your best protection is insect repellent with DEET. Used as directed, DEET has an excellent safety record.
- Products with lemon eucalyptus oil are effective for shorter periods of time.
- Wear long-sleeved shirts and pants at dusk and dawn when mosquitoes are most active.

Long-time Olds teacher takes over as principal in Didsbury

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

New additions to the Chinook's Edge School Division teaching staff were introduced in Innisfail Aug. 24.

Long-time Olds High School teacher and vice-principal Garth Dagg will be filling the Didsbury High School principal's chair during Steve Thompson's one-year absence, Thompson will be working at the school division head office as Division Principal.

A17-year mainstay at Olds High School, Dagg says he's looking forward to the new challenge in Didsbury.

He says the transition will be easier because of the talented group already in place.

"We have a very strong staff," said the popular University of Saskatchewan graduate. "I know that through reputation and by having worked with them."

While his time as principal in Didsbury is expected to be brief, Dagg says he will be looking to continue the success that Thompson started.

"What I want to do is carry on the mandate of this school, which is a very strong academic success," he said.

"Our students are leaving in Grade 12 and placing very high on their achievement exams. I want to continue that."

Kacie Guse in math and drama, Colleen Wassmer in physical education and science, Karla Shultz in science and math, Leanne Jacobson in English language arts, and Mark Schultz predominantly in science, are teachers that will be joining Didsbury High School for the coming school year.

Ross Ford elementary school in Didsbury will be welcoming two new teachers to the fold.

Greg Norris will be taking over for the recently retired Lorna Brown, teaching Grade 4.

"We are going to miss Mrs. Brown," said Ross Ford Principal Brent Runnett.

"But are excited to have Greg with us."

Also new to the staff is Joleen Russell who will be the kindergarten and special education teacher.

"We're very excited to have them both on staff."

"They remind us veterans the good reasons of why we got into teaching and the exciting things ahead in the school year," said Runnett of adding new teachers.

Westglen School did not make any additions to its staff, and will continue with a roster of 16 teachers.

Accomplished Airdrie songstress Theresa Wasden belts out one of many classical and ragtime tunes during a performance at the Zion Evangelical Missionary Church Aug. 24. The powerful soprano was accompanied by pianist Ron Proctor.

Haskett house shooting shameful

BY JOSH SKAPIN
Didsbury Review

Once in a while we hear stories that take our level of disgust and outrage to a different level.

Commonly they involve harm to the helpless.

It doesn't take a card-carrying PETA member, an animal lover, or someone who simply owned a dog as a child to be beyond bothered by the animal cruelty case involving Didsbury's Daniel Charles Haskett.

But it does take a bad person to satisfy their anger with a gun.

According to police, someone took a firearm to Haskett's residence and shot through the living room window while he and his mother Angela were home.

Luckily, nobody was hurt.

Attending this year's Elks parade, it was apparent that Didsbury is a dog-loving community.

Every second or third family, or gathering of friends was accompanied by a tail-wagging companion.

Whether it's a strapping Rottweiler or a fuzzy-faced lapdog, there's something about these critters that makes me melt.

I am certifiably a dog person. Now, I'm not going to get into expressing my feelings that seem to be in line with the majority of people who have an opinion on animal abuse.

Hurting animals is wrong, the sky is blue and the grass is green.

If the person who shot through Haskett's window pulled the trigger because of the feelings they have over the incident involving Daisy Duke, they are no better than the individual they're unlawfully condemning.

When a gun is fired through a window, into a family home there is a chance someone will die.

That's the bottom line. That's not a protest against Daniel's behaviour that could have been homicide. It may have been intended as a scare tactic. But what if that bullet hit a body?

Violence against animals is wrong, but potentially murdering doesn't seem to be an issue for this individual.

This person isn't a hero. Their moral fabric isn't greater than their victim's.

We have an RCMP and a criminal justice system for a reason. No matter how horrific the incident, in a civilized society people don't start shooting when they are displeased with the handling of a crime.

Listening to Angela, who had no role in the animal cruelty incident, but was also at risk of being struck by the bullet, tearfully describe what happened and what raced through her mind when the shot was fired, it became apparent how reckless and potentially tragic the night of the shooting could have been.

There is no question that some people have not found forgiveness for Daniel and if you have every right to not choose to associate with him. But the day you shoot a gun into a family home - no matter how you feel about one of the people inside, I hope you go to jail.

Opinion

IN TRAINING FOR LABOUR DAY...

Letter to the editor

Rehabilitation rather than retaliation needed for Haskett

After reading the headlines in last week's paper, August 21st, "Police Investigate Shooting at the Haskett Home", I was distressed enough to write a long overdue letter to our community of Didsbury in support of our friends, the Hasketts.

When is this saga going to end? The prolonged outcry and demonstrations of the animal abuse case have been heard, laws will change and justice be served. The anger and hatred generated is leading to very destructive happenings in our town. We have all learned a hard lesson, as has Daniel, through all the past months' proceedings. At what point do we, the vocal demonstrators, the silent majority and the media become abusers of the accused?

We cannot bring back Daisy Duke, the dog, but we can help rehabilitate a young man and family whose hopes and dreams and reputation have been shattered. As a community, now known for negative reasons across our country and continent, we could show the world that care and support for the accused can bring about behavioural change and positive restoration.

Consider ourselves, if one of our family had made the same mistake, would we not long for a community that would, yes discipline, but then care and support us as a family. (Providentially, some of our children's escapades did not come to such a public scrutiny). At present we are seeing threats and violent acts for retaliation being committed against this family which now have to be investigated. It is a shame to think that this family must live in fear of their lives in our town of Didsbury. If we have a problem with expressing some grace and compassion toward the Haskett family, why not start with the Lord's Prayer?

Chamber searches for support

It is time businesses in Didsbury stepped up to the plate and made sure the quality of events and programs hosted by the Chamber of Commerce are maintained the way they need them. The Chamber currently has three positions available on the board: Treasurer, Vice-President, and a member at-large. These positions must be filled immediately in order to meet the requirements of the Chamber's bylaws.

The Chamber is looking for individuals who would like to share their expertise with a non-profit community organization. Anyone working in the business community, retired business owners, or employees of current business operators will enjoy the camaraderie and networking opportunities associated with volunteering with others interested in Didsbury's business community.

The Chamber hosts major events in Didsbury, including the Small Business Week Gala, Country Christmas, the Rosebud Run Sleddog Classic, and the Trade Show. Programs include the homepage program, business referrals, member get-togethers and discounts, and the Commerce Connection on CK-FM Radio. The Chamber is the leader for Didsbury's "Local First" awareness campaign, the Small Business of the Year Award, Christmas decorations in town, and organizes political forums for federal, provincial, and municipal candidates. The Chamber puts a float in the parade and hosts the Merchant's Pancake Breakfast during the Fair.

Some people volunteer opinions and criticisms, but do not volunteer time and energy to help out. The Chamber of Commerce depends almost entirely on volunteer helpers. It's time to step up to the plate and help your business organization help your business. Why? Because it's your turn!

The energy and time you give the Chamber of Commerce allows it to benefit fully from combining various experiences and perspectives to help it move forward. It is by seeing the same situation through different eyes that the Chamber can progress.

Please contact the Chamber office at the Train Station at 335-3265, contact President Scott Puttick at 335-3225, or call the undersigned if you are willing to "step up to the plate". With the competition in retail heating up all around us, there is no better time.

Drowning hearing postponed

BY DAN SINGLETON
MVG staff

A provincial court judge has excused himself from a hearing looking into the drowning death of an eight-year-old Olds boy in May last year.

Judge W.J. Cummings was scheduled to preside over a pre-inquiry conference in Didsbury starting this week, but withdrew after determining he knew one of the lawyers working on the case, creating a possible conflict of interest, said Kari Larson, Alberta Justice spokesperson.

"At this point we are just going to find a different judge to run that conference and inquiry," said

Larson

The pre-inquiry conference is being held to determine the scope of the fatality inquiry into the death of Jordan Neave, 8, who drowned at the Olds Aquatic Centre on May 20, 2006.

The fatality inquiry itself is scheduled for Feb. 27-29 in Didsbury.

"We are not expecting the judge's withdrawal to affect the inquiry dates," said Larson.

A new pre-inquiry conference date will be set, probably for this fall.

Unit Clerk

Alberta Children's Services, Didsbury - The Didsbury Office in Region 4 Central Alberta Child and Family Services Authority has an exciting opportunity for the successful candidate. If you have strong administrative skills including the ability to multi-task, set priorities, meet deadlines, produce accurate and quality work, while displaying a positive, friendly and professional attitude we want to hear from you. Candidates should possess a high aptitude for financial processing, accuracy and attention to detail.

Duties include:

- CYIM (Child and Youth Information Module) mainframe system entry, update and maintenance in all program areas which include Child Intervention, Family Enhancement, Screening and Investigations, etc.
- DAPS (Departmental Accounts Payable System) and CMAS (Contract Management Administrative System) data entry
- Financial processing - invoice coding, processing and adherence to policy and procedures
- Word processing of legal documents and other correspondence.
- Assist/act as a resource person in training new staff and co-workers on computer systems, clerical procedures and policies.
- Solicit information from the public (telephone or in person) to determine client need for referral to appropriate worker or to community resources.

As the ideal candidate you will exercise professionalism, initiative, excellent communication skills, good problem solving skills and a commitment to working in a team environment. Strong interpersonal skills and ability to carry out duties in a timely and accurate fashion are necessary to succeed in this position. While maintaining strict confidentiality and a positive attitude this position will need to deal with sensitive and difficult clients.

Qualifications: High School diploma plus office administrative training and related experience is required. Experience in Microsoft Office is essential. Experience with filing systems, data entry, and accounts payable is considered an asset. If you possess any or all of these qualifications, they must be noted in your resume. Applicants that meet the qualifications will be required to undergo a typing and word skills test prior to being interviewed.

Note: Final candidates for this position will be asked to undergo a security screening and a Children's Services Intervention check.

This is a temporary salaried position to November 30, 2007 with the possibility of extension. Salary: $30,480 - $38,280. Closing Date: August 31, 2007.

Online applications are preferred. To apply online visit www.gov.ab.ca/jobs or submit your resume to: Human Resource Services, 2nd flr, 4826 Ross Street, Red Deer, Alberta T4N 1X4. Fax: (403) 340-7681. Please ensure you quote competition number 42176.

Proudly working together to build a stronger province for current and future generations.

building the future on knowledge energy

Kyle Thulien, graduate student from Veteran, Alberta, performs research in the lab of Linda Pilarski, professor of oncology, who credits Kyle with developing applications of lab-on-a-chip for detecting different kinds of cancer.

University of Alberta professors Linda Pilarski, oncology, and Chris Backhouse, engineering, are applying nano-scale microfluidic technology to produce a lab-on-a-chip. This technology can replace a roomful of lab equipment, allowing patients to be screened anywhere, for many things, and in a fraction of the time and cost now required for medical tests. They formed a new TEC Edmonton company, i-LOC, to bring this technology to market.

Like many professors, both work with graduate students who pursue their own research—developing new uses for the technology that expand beyond medical testing. These graduate students bring “knowledge energy” to the research, quickly turning basic discoveries into multiple applications for potential commercialization.

“Graduate students are critical,” says Pilarski. “Most innovations come from their work, especially the development of high-value applications that could start a whole cluster of new Alberta businesses.”

Eight members met at the Midway Park at 5 p.m., Aug. 12th. The Kurtzes brought their fifth wheel trailer in which we held our meeting, as it was a bit on the cool side. We were disappointed that someone had removed one of the tables from one of the sites at the park. We hope it wasn't used for firewood. Our treasurer was absent, but reported that we are getting enough money from the campers at the park to be able to pay our caretakers, the Fisher family.

We received our Home and Country for each member as well as a newsletter from A.W.I. Our next meeting will be held October 1st at June Lane's. This is our Ethnic Dinner. We will then discuss “A toonie for a shingle at the Adelaide Hoodless Homestead.” At 6 p.m. the community joined us for a weiner roast. We had 39 in attendance.

RCMP focus on a safer September

During the month of September, RCMP officers from Didsbury and their road safety partners will be stepping up their efforts to reduce the harm caused to youth and children on the roadways in Didsbury, Carstairs, and Cremona. September traditionally marks the time of year when children and youth return to school after the summer break. As young children are cycling, walking and riding as passengers in vehicles to and from school it is also a time when adolescent youth are making new friends and renewing old friendships. Unfortunately, some youth find themselves engaging in high-risk behaviour on our roadways that all too often result in tragic consequences.

With the exception of May, September represents the month with the highest number of fatalities from motor vehicle collisions involving youth from age 16 to 19 years. In Alberta, 40 per cent of youth fatalities and 30 per cent of youth serious injury collisions involved persons aged 16 to 19. Male drivers, between the ages 18 and 19 account for the highest rate of drivers involved in casualty collisions.

"RCMP officers attended far too many collisions involving youth where they must also deliver tragic and often fatal details to the families of those involved," said Sgt. Kevin O'Dwyer. "Our youth are the future and police officers will continue to focus on behaviours that put young drivers at risk: impaired driving, speed, seat-belt use and careless or risky driving actions." Recent statistics indicate that more than 25 per cent of all youth fatalities and serious injuries involved an impaired driver. Unsafe speed was a causal factor for 64 per cent of youth fatalities. Over half the people killed in motor vehicle collisions were not wearing seat-belts. It has been shown that proper use of a lap/shoulder belts reduces the risk of fatal injury to front seat occupants by 45 per cent and the risk of moderate to critical injury by 50 per cent.

RCMP Officers will also be out in full force to ensure that school zone speed limits are enforced. Generally, the speed limit is 30 km/h for both school and playground zones in urban areas, in rural areas, the speed limit is 40 km/h. Speed limits within school zones are usually in effect every day that school is in session. However, playground zones operate from 8:30 a.m. to one hour after sunset every day of the year. The limits can vary, so drivers should watch for and obey posted signs.

Midway School – Watch us grow!

Midway School is continuing to provide a fantastic education in a small class-size, rural setting in the eastern edge of Chinook's Edge boundaries. The parents and community members are excited about the upcoming year, and a solid volunteer-oriented seasoned parent group that will be nurturing them along. The school still boasts its private parent run ECS and playschool which offer many advantages for the children. Chinook's Edge has once again placed a principal starting this fall. For the past number of years, Midway has been a satellite school, administered under Hugh Sutherland in Carstairs. Jim McAdams will also be in a teaching position which unfortunately means the loss of Mr. Nathan Vernon our present Grade 5 and 6 teacher. He will be sadly missed by the children and parents at Midway. He is an amazing teacher who encourages children to do beyond their best. He teaches "outside the box," challenging all levels of students to pursue excellence in their work. His leaving is definitely a loss to our school. We as a school body have been plagued by threats of closure for years, but Midway is still here. The school has been producing great students, athletes and community members for years and the community plans to keep it open. Some families may feel they don't want to start their children at Midway because of the ongoing threat of closure, but many others think that even one year spent at Midway with the small teacher-student ratio and community minded spirit is far better than not having had the experience at all. Our enrollment numbers have fluctuated over the years. This is mostly due the generation gap in the family farm which is where we are right now. The numbers have always rebounded as children move back to the farm to settle down and start their families and also due to the growing number of acreages popping up everywhere. This is ever increasing as the city has seemed to grow closer and the county is working on new subdivision rules.

The school body and community still celebrate many occasions throughout the year. In October, the Pie Social and Grade 6 graduation ceremony take place. The tradition brings back the graduation class from the year before for a special evening performance by the present student body to individually recognize each Grade 6 student. We finish the evening off with sharing of pie and coffee and fellowship with our friends and neighbours. The students also put on an amazing Christmas concert and play every year, participate in our science fair, track meet, field trips and year-end awards and band concert. Even though the school numbers are small, the children still receive the variety of learning on a much more personal level.
